VOL. VIII. NO. 19. GREENSBORO, N. C., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1901. Price Five

DEATH OF MRS. J. I. SCALES.

OCCURRED AT TWO O'CLOCK THIS MORNING OF PNEUMONIA.

She Had Been Sick a Week and Until Yesterday Morning Her Illness had not been Considered as Serious—Then Came a Turn for the Worse and Her Children Were Sent for.

The announcement of the death of Mrs. J. I. Scales, which occured at two o'clock this morning, will carry sadness to many a warm friendly heart in this city and elsewhere. Mrs. Scales was suffering from an attack of the grip, which was seen on last Wednesday to have developed into a case of pneumonia. No alarm was felt, however, until yestereay morning, when a turn for the worse came. Until that time it had not been thought necessary to send for her children who live at a distance. When it became evident that her condition was dangerous, telegrams were at once sent.

Mrs. Scales, was Miss Effie Henderson, daaghter of Archibald and Annie Henderson, of Granville county. She was married to Col. Julius I. Scales in 1859, from which union nine children were born, all of whom survive. She was sixty years of age. She and her husband moved to this city from Rockingham county just after the war. Col. Scales died in 1876, and Mrs. Scales continued to reside here, and reared all her children. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church and none were more faithful than she. She was a woman of strong character, christian faith, and spotless life, and the whole city join in sorrow at her death

The children of the deceased are Mrs. H. W. Cobb, of New York; Mrs. Ernest McKenzie and Missses Anna and Irvin Scales; Messrs. A. M., and Julius I Scales, of this city; Lieutenant Archibald H. Scales, of the United States Navy, stationed at Annapolis; Wallace N. Scales, of Washington State, and Pinkney Scales, of Connecticut. All of these are now in the city except the two last named. The latter will arrive tonight, and the former, Mr. Pinkney Scales, being in the distant State of Washington, will be unable to reach here in time for the funeral.

The funeral will be he'd at the First Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

Resolutions by the Bar.

The members of the bar met today and passed the following resolutions:

Whereas, we, the members of the bar of Greensboro, N. C., have heard with profound sorrow of the death of Mrs. Effie Henderson Scales, wife of our deceased lamented brother, Hon. Junius I. Scales. Now, therefore, be it Resolved, first, That we hereby tender our heartfelt sympathy to her bereaved family, and especially do our hearts go out in this hour of their grief and sorrow to her sons, members of this bar, Alfred M. Scales and Junius I. Scales, and to her son, Wallace N. Scales, a former member of this bar.

Second, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Superior Court of Guilford county.

Third, That copies of these resolutions be furnished the newspapers of the city of Greensboro for publication.

Mr. Gales at the University.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

Chapel Hill, Feb. 24.—Mr Weston R. Gales began a series of sermons to the students of the University here tonight. He took for his text Luke 14-28: "For which of you intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he hath sufficient to finish it?" Mr. Gales preached a most excellent sermon to over 400 students, and it is hoped that his meetings will prove of great benefit to the students of the University. He will continue these services all the week, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The Telegram's Linotype.

The Telegram's Merganthaler Linotype machine has arrived and will be placed and put to work as soon as possible. This is the machine which Col. John R. Morris describes as "cornshellers." It is the best and most modern, and the only machine that the large papers have found practicable, and is now used by all the large publications. It does not set type as the old style machines do, but molds the type in sections of one line each, as it goes.

It will take some time to get it up and running, when it is ready our friends will be invited in to see it "chew up hot metal and spit out lines of type." The use of the machine will give our readers much more reading matter.

CUBAN MISSIONS.

Rev. Mr. Graham Returning From the Island, Speaks of Them.

Rev. L. Y. Graham, pastor of Olivet Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, spent last night and the forenoon today in the city with Mr. J. R. Mendenhall. Mr. Graham is returning home from a visit to Havana, Cuba, in the interest of the mission work established there by the Presbyterian Board of Sabbath Seoool work.

Mr Graham spoke favorably of the mission work being done in Cuba, not only by his own denomination but by other denominations as well. "The native Cubans," said he, "are not hostile to Protestantism, but they have so long been under Roman Catholicism with its magnificent cathedrals that the plain missions of the Protestants do not seem to them to be places of worship, Were the Protestant denominations to erect cathedrals approaching in magnificence those of the Catholic Church the people would be more readily reached."

A national frog trust has been organized up in Massachusetts. Now if all the croakers can be persuaded to join that trust, an anti-trust club could be worked to great advantage.

RATS.

Professional Men and City Officers Engage in a Killing.

A certain North Carolinian who was "thar," is fond of telling how, at a certain United States prison where a large number of Confederate prisoners were kept, the men, both officers and privates, were nearly starved to death by the shortness of Federal rations. They were put to as hard straights, almost, for food, as they had been in the field while living on nothing.

There was a wharf within the prison limits, which was infested with rats. In their half-starved condition rats made good, fresh pork for the men. It was an amusing sight, says the gentleman, in spite of the terribly painful side of it, to see Confederate brigadiers and colonels standing in patient silence with sticks raised over the rats holes waiting for a porker to shove his head out.

This was brought to mind this morning by a scene in front of Mr. C. G. Wright's office. That gentleman had a trap set last night and caught several very large rodents. The killing of them enlisted the efforts of lawyers, officers and other individuals. As said, Mr. Wright furnished the rats, Editor Reece furnished a dog, and Chief Scott, City Clerk Michaux, Lawyers Wright and Forbis, all armed with sticks, made an outlying circle to prevent the escape of any luckless fellow who dodged the dog. Numerous spectators witnessed the onslaught. Messrs John L. King and Sam Gilmer, by way of precaution against danger, mounted the court house portico across the street and viewed the scene from afar off. The fun was fast and furious, and highly enjoyed by all but the rats. After all the scalps had been taken a committee was appointed to bury the slain, also one to inform Messrs. King and Gilmer that the danger was over, and that they might come down in safety. Editor Reece had to doctor his dog. Lawyers Wright and Forbis were appointed to look after the estates of the deceased, and Clerk Michaux, the well-known author of "An Ode to a Calf," was asked to prepare a poem supplementary to the "Pied Piper of Hamelin," explaining that there were other ways to rid a town of rats than by charming them to their destruction by music.

CHAIR MEN MEET

Two Associations in Session at Hotel Guilford.

The North Carolina Chair Manufacturers' Association met in the Guilford this morning at ten o'clock, remaining in session one hour. Then the Southern Chair Association met. Both organizations appointed committees to do certain work and to report at a meeting which is being held this afternoon. Nothing of the business, which is merely relating to the trade, has been given out.

Mr. F. S. Lamberth, of Thomasville, is president of the State Association, and O. E. Mendenhall, of Lexington, secretary. Of the Southern Association, T. M. Brumby, of Alabama, is president, and C. C. Congrove, of Cambridge, Ohio, is secretary.

Those present are: C. C. Congrove, of Cambridge, Ohio; J. L. Borden, Goldsboro; T. L. Harris, E. W. Carter, J. W. Cates, J. R. Meyers, T. S., R. T. and J. H. Lamberth, of Thomasville; Charles and Ralph Seimes, of Salem; S. H. Tomlinson, H. C., and W. S. Turner, and B. A. Best, High Point.

Partial Strike.

Yesterday all the weavers in the Revolution Mills quit work, owing to dissatisfaction at changing from day wages to piece payment. About half of the strikers have been replaced and all soon will be. The work of the mill was not effected. There was no general strike.

Means a Big Occasion.

Concord Standard.

The Greensboro Battle Ground Company has secured Governor Aycock to make the annual oration at the 4th of July celebration. It is an interesting spot and a speech from the Governor on this occasion means an occasion that will be memorable.

Forty Reported Killed.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New York, Feb. 26.—A Journal special says that a big wreck has occured on the Wabash line near Goshen, Ind., and forty persons are reported killed. There is no information save the wildest rumors to give basis to the report.

A special train of physicians and nurses have been dispatched to the scene.

The New Star.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Lick, Feb. 26.—The observatory of W. W. Campbell, astronomer, has issued a supplementary statement concerning a new star, saying it has diminished one-fifth in brightness of magnitude in the past twenty-four hours. The presence of hydrogen in the star is shown by broad bright bands of that element.

Great Mine Disaster.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Kemmeree, Wyo., Feb. 26.—Fifty-three miners are entombed beyond hope of ruscue two miles from the mouth of the Diamondville coal mine, No. 1. Only one man, John Anderson, escaped, owing to the fact that he was working near the mouth of the level when the accident occurred.

AFTER THE BALL

A Scrap as the Result of Slighting Remarks.

As a result of some slighting remarks made regarding the participants of the ball recently held at the McAdoo house, a young man, a stranger in this city, named Fred Eagan, left for Baltimore last night with a black eye.

Mr. Eagan is from Cincinnati, and had been in Greensboro two or three weeks, presumably on business. It seems that he looked in on the ball the other night, and afterwards took it upon himself to make some remarks about the ladies present, beside some observations on Southern women in general. Mr. Will McAdoo met him last night in front of the Guilford and demanded an apology, which was refused. When Mr. Eagan refused to apologize, Mr. McAdoo struck him, and a scrap ensued till the participants were parted.

Mr. Eagan left on the night train for Baltimore where he has an especial friend. He received a very black eye in the scrimmage.

Epworth Meeting Last Night.

Communicated.

Those who heard Prof. Claxton last evening at West Market Street Epworth League were not only pleased and entertained for the moment, but benefitted both in truth and knowledge for the future. It is the desire of the League in these literary meetings to offer nothing that will not be helpful to the members and others who may attend. Prof. Claxton spoke on "How to Read the Bible," and opened to every thoughtful mind vistas of truth and beauty not before dreamed of, and left in the soul a longing to tread the paths leading to the mountain heights from which a clearer view may be gained.

At the close of the lecture, Miss Minnie Gorrell sang "Ave Maria." Miss Gorrell's voice has unusual sweetness, and it was indeed a treat to listen to her.

The next literary meeting of the League will be held on March 18th. Further announcement will be made later.

Mr. Newton to Arrive this Evening.

Rev. W. C. Newton, the new pastor of West Washington Street Baptist Church will arrive tonight from Goldsboro. He will stop for the present with Mr. Lee H. Battle, on Church street.

The recruiting office in this city will probably be closed in a short while, there not being sufficient recruiting here to warrant its continuance. It is a branch office and was established here about three years ago.

Special Dispatch to The Tele

Raleigh, Feb. 26.—The the divorce bill, wit amendment making thr donment a ground for d

The House discussed t ing the law regarding panies which, under the p refuse to guarantee county bonds, by providing for a bank o posit for county funds to be designated by county commissioners. The bill was finally re-referred. The pension bill was discussed and made a special order for Wednesday. The revenue bill was made the special order for Thursday.

The Smith Bill.

The House committee on education met yesterday afternoon in the office of the superintendent of public instruction, Judge Connor presiding, says the News and Observer. The first matter taken up was the bill introduced in the House by Mr. L L. Smith, of Gates, entitled "A Bill to be Entitled an Act to Carry out the Constitutional Requirements in Regard to Public Schools."

The bill is drawn so as to provide for the distribution of an unnamed amount of money to the public schools of each county, which, with school funds already provided for, will give every school in North Carolina a four month's term every year. It's terms are such that no school which now receives as much as one hundred dollars will draw any money under this act, and that no county which does not get to the limit of the tax allowed by law for the public schools will be benefited. The bill provides also for the manner in which the amount needed by each county is to be drawn from the State treasury, giving to each school the difference between one hundred dollars and the amount apportioned to such school by the county board.

One section provides for the punishment of any county superintendent who misrepresents facts in order to get funds for his county, making such a misdemeanor, the penalty being removal from office, with fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Under the act no school with a school census under sixty-five will be benefitted unless the county board and State superintendent so agree, and no other funds for the public schools other than the amount needed to carry out the act can be appropriated out of the State treasury.

There was much discussion of the bill of Mr. Smith, and its provisions were carefully considered. Finally the committee agreed on a favorable report, several members reserving the right to antagonize some features of the bill when it comes before the House as a special order at 12 o'clock today.

Before adjourning the committee voted unfavorably on the following House bills: One providing for books for indigent children, introduced by Mr. Thompson, of Onslow; one providing for books for orphans and indigent children, by Mr. Williams of Dare; one for a system of examinations for public school teachers, by Mr. Spainhour, of Burke, and one regulating the public schools of Clay county, by Mr. Coleman, of Clay.

To Cut and Make Carpets.

The Southern Import and Commission Company has ordered machinery for cutting and making carpets, and will add this department to their business. This will be a considerable improvement and convenience. The department will be in charge of Mr. J. N. Leak.

Beggars in the street maintain that the trailing skirts now in fashion have almost ruined their business. The greater part of their revenue comes from women, and nowadays women must use one hand in holding up the trailing skirt. But it takes two hands to open a purse and the beggar loses.

AYCOCK'S SUMMER WORK.

nsboro Telegram says:
peech at the Normal and College Monday evening cIntyre said that in less mouths the people of this d witness a sight which never before seen, towit: rnor going up and down aking a campaign for edu- e take it that Senator Mc is in close touch with the thought and work of the not make this statement nds, and hence it must be mpaign is to be made by cock. We hope this may doubt it is true. Gov. only earnestly desirous the people an adminis- hich will secure to each and citizen the blessings and con- tentment which can only come from good government, but of laying the foundations for such an enlargement of the opportunities for education that the future citizen may be better prepared to continue good and intelligent government throughout our State. Governor Aycock is aware of the fact however liberal the provision the Legislature may make looking to the improvement of the schools, unless the children attend them the schools will have failed of their purpose, the means of the taxpayers will have been expended in vain, and the State, to the extent of such failure on the part of the children, will be no better off than now. The parents must be aroused to a sense of their obligations in the premises, a sense sadly wanting to a large degree The school system, even after the funds may be applied, must be adjusted to suit conditions as they are and not as the theorists fancy they ought to be. We repeat what we have before said that summer schools should be held for children ten years of age and under, and fall and winter schools for those older. This plan has been established in Buncombe, and has resulted in doubling the attendance in one year.

Gov. Aycock has consented to deliver his annual address at the venerable and justly honored Salem Academy this summer; also the oration at the Guilford Battle Ground on the 4th of July Such efforts are themselves not only highly beneficial, but educational as well. It is fortunate, no less for the State as a whole than for those whom his excellency will have occasion to address that he will extend his work this summer in the manner indicated by Senator McIntyre. It will be the work of the heart as well as the head on the part of the Governor—a labor of love and sincere patriotism—and will result in the greatest good to the greatest number—just when and where such good work is sadly needed.

The Southern's Fast Run.

Savanah, Ga., News, 19th.

The fastest run on record by a railway train was that over the Plant System yesterday morning by the new fast mail, No. 39, inaugurated by the Southern Railway for the sole purpose of keeping its contract with the government for the transportation of the mails. South of Savanah the train, as are all that come in over the Southern, is handled by the Plant System, and the operating officials and employes of the latter road are jubilant over the initial run.

An engine, postal car and through sleeper comprise the mail train, which passed through Savanah, south-bound, yesterday for the first time. It was due to leave here at 3:25 a m., but was late, leaving at 3:51, with Engineer Lodge at the throttle of engine No. 111. From Fleming, Ga., to Jacksonville, is 148 miles, but Engineer Lodge sent his train over the distance in 130 minutes. The swiftest running was between Jesup and Waycross, 40 miles, which were reeled off in 30 minutes. From Waycross to Jacksonville it is 75 miles miles and 70 minutes were required for the run.

Of late years the Southern railways have been doing some fast running. They have put on trains that rival in speed those on the big systems in the North and West, but the record established yesterday by the fast mail is yet to be equalled by any line in this section.

In the run from Fleming to Jacksonville, 148 miles in 130 minutes, four regular stops were made, besides a delay of 15 minutes in packing a hot box and changing brasses.

A powerful engine cannot be run with a weak boiler, and we can't keep up the strain of an active life with a weak stomach; neither can we stop the human machine to make repairs. If the stomach cannot digest enough food to keep the body strong, such a preparation as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure should be used. It digests what you eat and it simply can't help but do you good. CONCERNING MRS. N[illegible]N

Correspondence of The Telegram.

We of the American pursuasion are opposed to the use of a big N in nation, but the necessity has arisen for the use of the cap at both ends of the dear word in the person of the dear, sweet specimen of feminity recognized as the salwart saloon smasher and glaring approriator of man's prerogative. The whole proceeding from beginning to end, is a sad prostitution of power both physical and mental, which should adorn and not disgrace our women. We wish to be understood as being on the war path against whiskey under all circumstances, and in every form. We have fought for twenty-two years with the full strength of pen and tongue and will continue to do so, but we can't and never will consent that the fair daughters of our fair and beautiful country shall emasculate themselves to the degree of debauchery to establish a certain condition of affairs. We are informed through the State press, of the fact the "NatioN" will visit, and by her unwomanly acts polute our moral atmosphere and make a free show of her inexcusable monomania, simply to satisfy a morbid desire for more notoriety. God deliver us from the presence and purnicious example of this wo-man of amizonian proportions, and degraded and debauched ideas. Our ideas, (and we have lived up to them for over twenty years), with reference to the manufacture and sale of intoxicants, are very pronounced, and having many times given them publicity through the columns of some of the most influential journals of this, as well as many other of the sisterhood of States, need no re-utterance, suffice it to say, that where the fight for sobriety waxes hottest, you will recognize the scintillations of the DIAMOND.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26.

A lawyer of the city calls attention to section seven of the rules adopted for the government of the impeachment trial. It is as follows:

The hour of the day at which the Senate shall sit upon the trial of an impeachment shall be 11 a. m., and when the hour for such sitting shall arrive, the presiding officer of the Senate shall so announce; and thereupon the president shall cause proclamation to be made, and the business of the trial shall proceed until 2 o'clock p. m., unless upon a motion, seconded by one-fifth of the members present, the court shall determine to adjourn earlier or sit longer. The adjournment of the Senate sitting in said trial shall not operate as an adjournment of the Senate; but on such adjournment the Senate shall resume the consideration of its legitimate business.

It will be noticed that the last words of the above say that when the impeachment work is dismissed for the day the Senate shall return to "its legitimate business." This, the gentleman thinks, intimates pretty strongly that the impeachment work is held in poor esteem by the Senate.

Elsewhere is printed a clipping from the Durham Herald, telling of two forgeries by bogus checks in that town. No longer ago than yesterday two Greensboro merchants asked The Telegram to say something about the laxity of the law regarding the passing of bank checks. Innocent people, they say, are being picked up on this thing almost daily, and when no actual loss occurs, are subjected to great inconvenience. A man walks into a store, buys goods and presents a check in payment. The merchant takes the check to the bank only to be told that all the money has been drawn out Then he has no redress, and must wait the convenience of the purchaser or lose the amount. This, the gentlemen said, ought to be remedied.

There are now about ten days more of the legislative session, yet little important legislation has been done. Nothing definite has been given out regarding the school law, and nobody knows whether the one proposed will be, when it comes, good or bad. Such matters as these ought to be gotten at earlier in the session in order that the public may have time to discuss them. And, we suppose, all thought of any labor legislation has been side-tracked.

PASSING FORGED CHECKS.

Two Rascals Get in Their Work In Durham.

Durham Herald, 24th.

During the past week two forgers got in their work here, passing two bogus checks and then skipping out without being arrested.

Last Tuesday night a neatly dressed young man, who had the appearance of being a gentleman, entered the shoe store of Pridgen & Jones and asked to be shown a pair of shoes. He was waited on by Mr. Melvin, one of the clerks, and soon selected a pair of $3 shoes. In payment for the purchase he presented a check drawn in favor of George Love and signed by C. C. Thomas. The check was for $18 Mr. Melvin turned the check over to Mr. T. J. Jones, one of the proprietors, and as there was nothing suspicious he gave the man his change. The check was placed in the safe and it was not known that it was forgery until carried to the bank next day.

The only irregularity about the check was that it was evidently intended to sign the firm name of C. C Thomas Company when the "Company" was left off.

Another firm in the city was also taken in by these slick rascals. They went into the store and purchased a bill of goods, presenting in payment a check drawn as the one mentioned above for exactly the same amount $18 In this place the check was made payable to to a man named Norton and he explained by saying that he was a drummer and had taken on a side line for the C. C. Thomas Company. He was such a gentle looking chap and the amount was so small that nothing wrong was suspected. He got about $15 change in this instance.

This last named forgery, like the previous one, was not discovered until the check was presented at the bank some time the following day.

It is thought that the two men went from here to Danville, as it was said that they were seen in Danville, at least one of them, on Tuesday night.

It is said that there is a gang working different sections of the South in exactly the same manner as the two firms were worked here. The forgers get the name of some prominent firm, forge the name for small amounts and then work off the checks during a rush moment, buying a bill of goods and getting the remainder in change. Officers are trying to locate the forgers.

A NEW FIELD OPENED TO GIRLS.

"There are forty-eight students in our shorthand department," remarked Mr. E. J. Forney, the well-known shorthand teacher at the State Normal and Industrial College today. Nine of these young women are from Greensboro, the others coming from all parts of the State.

"When I came to Greensboro nine years ago," continued the speaker, "there were probably not more than ten young women shorthand writers in the whole State, while today Greensboro can easily boast of twice that number. A new profession has really been opened to the young women of the State within the last decade. The young women stenographers of the State are not now counted by the ten, but by the hundred. In the more important towns and cities of the State, many of the larger firms, whose business will justify it, employ their own private stenographer. This is also true to a limited extent of the manufacturing concerns. But the most interesting feature of the situation is that in many of the smaller towns the business men, to whom the service of a stenographer was only a dream a few years ago, now have within their reach stenographers of good ability. For instance, in passing up Main street in Salisbury you will notice a neat little sign reading, "Stenographer's Office. Hours, 9:30 to 1.30; 2:30 to 5:30." The enterprising young woman in charge of this office is Miss Lucie V. Brown, who was educated at the Normal, and who for a number of years was private stenographer to Congressman Small, at Washington, D. C. Miss Brown returned to Salisbury, her native town, and opened up a general office for stenographic work. She has on her list of clients the work of four regular firms; also the bookkeeping of two. In addition to her home customers she has a good patronage among the travelling men. What is true of Salisbury is also true of Hickory, where Miss Lodu-ky Doster has a similar general office; also of Newbern, where Miss Mattie Belo Williams, one of Newbern's most accomplished young women, has an office for general stenographic work. The compensation these young women are able to earn is equal to, and during some months, exceeds that paid to the teachers in the schools in these towns. It takes good ability, something above the average, I should say, to do this class of miscellaneous work. I could mention other towns which have been possessed by these enterprising young women, but these are sufficient to show the signs of the advancing commercial spirit of North Carolina, and the progressiveness of the young womanhood of the State.

"Miss Hattie Berry, of Hillsboro who has been at the Normal for four months, taking a shorthand course, was sent to Chapel Hill two weeks ago to take a position with the United States Geological Survey, which is now doing special work in this State."

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure ond so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mre ohn Oliver, of Philadeldhia, was the ubject, is narrated by him as follows; 'I was in a most dreadful condition tion. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

Millions of people are familiar with DeWitt's Little Early Risers and those who use them find them to be famous little liver pills. Never gripe. Howard Gardner.

A THOUSAND TONGUES.

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa, when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. Kings' New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

Like bad dollars, all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are worthles. The original quickly cures piles, sores and all skin diseases. Howard Gardner.

EDITOR'S AWFUL PLIGHT.

F. M. Higgins, editor Seneca, (Ills.,) News, was afflicted for years with piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes two boxes wholly cured him. It's the surest Pile cure on earth and the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25 cents. Sold by C. E Holton, druggist.

BUFFALO AND THE BEES.

The busy bee will be in big business at the Pan-American exposition the coming summer. It has been decided to construct a special building for the proper display of the working colonies of bees and the great variety of bee keepers' supplies which will constitute this exhibit. This will undoubtedly be the most extensive bee exhibit ever prepared in this or any other part of the world. Anyone who is not a student of bee culture little realizes the very great importance of this industry. It is estimated that there are 300,000 persons engaged in bee culture in the United States alone and that the present annual value of honey and wax is in excess of $20,000,000. There are 110 societies devoted to the study and promotion of bee keeping. Eight journals are sustained by this industry. Fifteen steam power factories are producing supplies of various kinds for the use of bee keepers. American honey finds a market in many distant countries, the United States producing more honey than any other nation.

The bee exhibits at the Pan-American exposition will be so arranged that the bees may enter their hives from the exterior of the building and carry on their work of honey collection undisturbed by visitors, yet in full view through the glass sides of their hives. The successful management of an apiary require a knowledge of botany as well as the habits and requirements of the bees themselves. The little honey bee plays a very important part in the general economy. The failure of fruit crops may be due to the absence of bees whose special function is to fertilize the blossoms by carrying the pollen from stamens to pistil.

It is estimated that the flora of the United States could sustain ten times as many bees as are now in existence and nearly every farm could support an apiary of profitable size. The bee exhibit will illustrate the operation of an apiary and will show the common honey producing flora in a way to be understood by all who may be interested. The relation of bees to horticulture and agriculture will be clearly shown and the many uses of honey illustrated. Honey is extensively used in the manufacture of bake stuffs and in making medicines and candles. Bee's wax is a commercial article much used by dentists and manufacturers of wax goods.

The actual demonstration of bee keepers' supplies of latest pattern will show what economies may be practiced by bee keepers to increase their profits. The movable frame hive was invented in 1851 by Langstroth, and since that time the application of labor-saving, honey-saving and bee-saving devices have been very interesting and important. Experiments in crossing varieties of bees have been carried on with surprising success. New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont and other New England states are large producers of comb honey. Any locality in which white clover, basswood and buckwheat are plentiful is adapted to the successful culture of the bees. In California and Arizona the keeping of bees ranks as one of the most important industries, and from those states are annually shipped vast quantities of liquid honey.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employe of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He says: 'I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by C. E. Holton.

ANNIE LAURIE.

Across the sea a fragment,
Blown with the spray and mist
Shoreward from rosy distances,
Where shade and shine hold tryst;
An old song set in colorings
Of gold and amethyst.

A ship on the horizon
Where misty curtains cling,
Lightly to clearer levels
Her sails of violet swing;
A schooner nearing the harbor—
Listen! The sailors sing:

"Maxwelton braes are bonnie,
Where early fa's the dew.
'Twas there sweet Annie Laurie
Gave me her promise true."
Oh, the rainbow lights of boyhood
Kindle my skies anew.

"Maxwelton braes are bonnie."
How sweet that old refrain!
The promises of morning
Break into bloom again,
And on the lowly roof I hear
The music of the rain.

"Maxwelton braes are bonnie."
There's mother at the door.
The cattle down the dusky lane
Are coming as of yore;
And, mounted on the pasture bars,
I swing and sing once more.

"Maxwelton braes are bonnie."
Oh, bonnie maid of mine,
Thro' all the mists of distance
Again the dark eyes shine;
The world is full of music,
And living seems divine!

Across the sea a fragment,
Blown with the spray and mist
Shoreward from rosy distances,
Where shade and shine hold tryst;
A vision and a memory,
In gold and amethyst.

The Dancing Teacher

THE peculiar thing about Marie Vanderpool was that she had an intemperate appetite for happiness. She took to dancing slippers as naturally as other folk take to goloshes or walking boots. She sang as readily as other people sigh. She discovered a chance for a frolic with the same enthusiasm that others found an opportunity for work.

No one ever claimed that she was of any use, and she certainly never made any such claim herself. It never occurred to her that she could be useful, and she often reflected that to a world so swarming with useful persons as this appeared to be—if one judged by the self-placed estimate of these persons—there was plenty of room for one blissful creature of the nonutilitarian sort.

All of the other members of her family were industrious, and several of them were wise. They won distinction along commercial and intellectual lines, were noted for their philanthropies, and were solicited to lend their names to "causes." They were associated with nearly all of the leading benevolent enterprises of the city.

Now, it is impossible for any seeing and hearing person to go about Chicago without becoming aware of the fact that a large number of the citizens of this busy town are not having a good time. Even Marie observed it. She saw children with old faces, and men with despair looking out of their eyes, and women nervous and crushed under a burden of toil. She saw homes that would not keep out the cold, and coats that hung in rags from the shoulders that supported them. And, what was equally pathetic, she noticed that many persons worked so hard to silence "the wolf's long howl" that they had no heart for pleasure.

"It is as likely as not," said Marie to herself, "that they have never discovered how to be happy." And she felt a vast commisseration for them. Not to be happy! It was fearful—or it was stupid!

It chanced that on one occasion there was a certain festivity at a settlement house in one of the most crowded and poverty-stricken parts of the city, and that Marie was invited to go. It was not, perhaps, just the sort of thing she would have selected, but as there was nothing else doing that evening, for a wonder, and as she had no mind to sit down with a book, she concluded to go. She was a good deal puzzled to know what to wear, for she was particular about the proprieties, but she hit upon a costume at length that seemed to be neither too plain nor too fine. She surveyed herself with pleasure. It was pleasant to have large and brilliant brown eyes, a mass of wayward golden hair, a snow white neck and shoulders, moddled with tender and abundant grace, and a mouth that smiled with more merriment than the common run of mouths.

But what Marie saw at the settlement was calculated to make her forget, for once, the appearance of which she was so proud. She even forgot to be resentful because some of the people she met were serious. For the first time she found herself face to face with the serious problem of life—for the first time a dim notion that life was given to be used, struggled up through her consciousness. She found women as well born as herself, and much better educated and trained, devoting their lives to others—and therefore to themselves, since in the expenditure of life in service comes the best development. This type of womanhood was new to her. She had been acquainted with many who patronized charities and benevolences, but here were women who found it a privilege to express life in terms of love. Moreover, she found the "neighbors" who came to the settlements interesting in the extreme. Here was a whole library of human documents, so to speak, awaiting her perusal. She looked in the faces of the girls, serious before they should be so, showing the signs of close confinement in stores and sweating shops, and the binderies and tobacco factories, and it seemed to her as if she must pour sunlight into their lives from the abundant source of it within her own heart.

"But I could do nothing," she said, dejectedly, to one of the residents. "I should only be in the way."

"I don't think you could be in the way anywhere, Miss Vanderpool," the lady had replied, gently. "If you would just come here and laugh for us occasionally, as you know how, it seems to me it might be an invaluable service."

Marie laughed then involuntarily, and at the bird-like, joyful note a dozen persons turned around with a sympathetic smile upon their faces.

The next night there was a dancing party at the house of a friend of Marie. She went to it as eagerly as if it had been her first ball, and she was a lovely sight in her white gown with its silver lilies of the valley woven in the mesh and her necklace of turquoises. She carried lilies of the valley and forget-me-nots. A daintier maid or a more joyful one it would have been hard to have imagined.

Her programme was filled ten minutes after she had entered the ballroom, and as she danced it seemed to her that life was never so nearly perfect as when the music throbbed, and everyone was gay-hearted, and the lights burned and the flowers perfumed the air, and she, Marie, could lend herself to the rhythm and the joy and dance.

"Miss Vanderpool," said one gentleman, as he led her to her seat, "I have danced with a great many good dancers in my life, but I have never enjoyed a waltz so much as the last one. It is the perfection of motion which you have, and it is a chaming gift. Really, I can call it nothing less than a gift." He had expected a careless acknowledgment of this compliment, and was amazed when she said, gravely:

"And a gift is something which ought to be used, I suppose. That is what my sisters would say."

"Then they would approve of you, surely, for have you not been putting it to the best use possible?"

"I mean that it ought to be used for others."

"It has been—for as many others as could avail themselves of it. I regret that it has not been used more for me. One dance is a short allowance, it seems to me."

The beautiful head was shaken with yet greater gravity.

"Some time soon I am going to show you what I mean, Mr. Hadley," and then, smiling and dimpling, she went away with her next partner.

It was a month later when Kenneth Hadley received a letter from Miss Vanderpool, asking him to be at the Brown street settlement on a certain night. Mr. Hadley was not interested in settlements, but he was in Miss Vanderpool, and he accepted the invitation. His cab took him along a thronged street, past tenement houses and saloons and shops and stores till he came to the brightly lighted tenement house standing tidy and serene-looking, in the midst of a block. He asked for Miss Vanderpool, and was shown past the crowded classrooms and lecture halls and music rooms to a room on the upper floor. The sound of a piano, violin and harp came out to salute his ears with a familiar tune, and he opened the door and stood within a large room filled with young men and women. But it was not a party which he beheld. He saw that at once. It was a dancing class. The pupils stood in line, awaiting the directions of their teacher.

He looked about him for Miss Vanderpool, but the chairs by the wall were vacant. Probably he had arrived too soon. However, he decided to inquire of the teacher. At that moment he beheld her—Marie Vanderpool—in her pretty pink frock with its short dancing skirt, standing before the class. It was she who was the teacher. Her eyes had never seemed brighter. The smiles which were never willing to leave her lips played about them bewitchingly. Her golden head looked more adorable and unkempt than ever. She seemed the incarnated spirit of the joy of life. She came running toward him.

"Come, come!" she cried. "I inveigled you over here with a purpose. I wanted you to show us the mazurka. You dance it so beautifully!" She called to the musicians to play a mazurka, gave the class permission to be seated, and poised herself delicately. "Come, come!" she cried again, "I insist on your dancing the best you know how."

Kenneth Hadley, the dignified and reserved, the man who had thought himself a little better than others and had held himself somewhat haughtily aloof, bowed to his destiny and entered heart and soul upon his task.

Nearly the whole evening was spent upon this dance.

"We must get it just right," Miss Vanderpool insisted. "You see, we are not learning in quite the usual way on account of a lack of the knowledge of the rudiments on the part of the teacher." And she laughed. "But we propose to dance as well as those who have learned in the regular, old-fashioned way."

Hadley looked about him and saw in every face, whether it was that of a young man or young woman, of Jew or Christian, of German, Bohemian, Scandinavian, or Italian, of factory hand or worker in the stock yards, a look of admiration and respect for Miss Vanderpool. Moreover, her infectious happiness had brought vivacity and something akin to delight even into the heaviest face.

"I never liked your dancing so much as I do at this hour," he said to her, earnestly. "I wish I might help you now and then."

"O you could, you could! But for you perhaps I should not have realized that I had one talent. It never occurred to me that being happy and having light feet could be a talent."

There was a Virginia reel—just by way of diversion—and Marie Vanderpool flitted through it like a spirit of joy.—Chicago Tribune.

SALE OF LAND TO CREATE ASSETS.

By virtue of a decree of the Superior Court made in the special proceeding entitled W. L. Wyrick administrator of N. E. Wyrick, et als, vs. Jacob E. BABY'S BUSINESS

A healthy baby is comfortable; and that is enough for a baby. His business in life is to grow.

Aside from acute diseases, his food is the cause of most of his troubles. But Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil delivers him from it.

He isn't sick; only a little hitch, somewhere, in his machine for turning food into growth.

It is a great thing to do, for a baby, to help him over a hitch with mere food—the emulsion is food that has the tact to get there.

The tact to get there is medicine.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

A new remedy for billiousness is now on sale at C. F. Holton's drug store. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. Price, 25 cents per box. Samples free.

Scrofula

THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAINT.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive sores and abscesses and oftentimes white swelling—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, for the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Seals, 115 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Ten years ago my daughter fell and cut her forehead. From this wound the glands on the side of her face became swollen and bursted. Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any benefit. We decided to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

SSS makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula. It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent the disease doing further damage.

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge whatever for medical advice.
